RAPID ADVANCE CORNERS VILLA

Mexican Bandits Said to Have Been Trapped.

PASSES TO SONORA BLOCKED

Strong Carranza Columns Hem in the Rebel Raider on Three Sides. While on the Fourth the Americans Are Driving Forward With Amazing Speed.

El Paso, Tex., March 20.—Pancho Villa has been driven into a trap by the rapid advance of the American troops, according to the information received in wireless dispatches from the front and in telegraphic dispatches
to General Gabriel Gaviira, the Carranza commander at Juarez.

Everything seems now to depend on the ability of the Carranza garrisons to hold their end of the net. On three sides of the bandit chief he is hemmed
in by strong Carranza columns, while on the fourth the Americans are driving forward with amazing speed.

Villa was reported in the Babicora
Lake region, on the ranch of Mrs.
Phoebe Hearst, which he has ravaged several times in the past. Babicora is about fifty-five miles south of Caleana, where one section of the American expeditionary force has arrived and is pushing forward at the rate of thirty-three miles a day.

A few miles to the east of the bandit's position is Namiagua, which is held by a powerful Carranza garrison.
On the west are the frowning barriers
of the Sierra Madras mountains, barring the way to Sonora. General Gutierrez, Carranza's field chief, declares that he holds all the passes to Sonora.
In any event, it is very unlikely that Villa would make a break for Sonora, for the people there are said to be staunchly loyal to Carranza.

To the south Villa's way is blocked by the Carranza garrison at Madero,
a town of considerable importance as the headquarters of the Madera Company, limited, an American concern, which has vast lumber, mining and railroad interests. On account of the importance of this town an exceptionally heavy Carranza force is said to hold it.

The whole situation seems to hang on the Carranzistas. If they remain loyal to the first chief, which up to the present time they have shown every indication of doing, Villa appears trapped. It is, of course, realized that he is on ground of his own choosing and a country admirably suited for guerrilla warfare and surprise attacks.

NEWS DISTURBS WASHINGTON

Officials Hear Some Carranza Men
May Join Villa.

Washington, March 20.—By far the most disturbing information which the administration has received recently on the Mexican situation came in the shape of informal reports that a far-reaching plot has been hatched whereby the Villa forces will be joined by a substantial Carranza force within the next few days.

The purpose of the plot is to so strengthen the Villa forces that they may be able to prolong indefinitely
the activities in the northern section of Mexico in the hope that eventually Carranza's forces will be so seriously affected that the United States will be compelled to intervene with a large force.

The fact that an attempt to compel the United States to intervene in Mexico is not news to the administration, because for many weeks the state department has looked upon Villa as merely a tool in the hands of the intervention element.

$100,000,000 IN INCOME TAX

Returns for 1916 $15,000,000 More Than Estimated.

Washington, March 20.—The income tax will place in the United States treasury this year approximately $100-000,000, or $15,000,000 more than was estimated last fall, according to preliminary estimates compiled by the internal revenue bureau.

Returns last year were about $89-
000,000 and the new figure is a record.
The estimates, which cover both individual and corporation returns, are based on telegraphic reports from virtually all revenue districts. So far $19,484,000 has been collected.

Hospital Ship Torpedoed.

Berlin, March 20.—The Austro-Hungarian hospital ship Elektra was torpedoed Saturday in the Adriatic sea
by an entente allies submarine, according to the Overseas News agency.
One sailor was drowned and two Red Cross nurses were seriously wounded.

PRINCE OF WALES.

Named Staff Captain
on Egyptian Force.

PRINCE OF WALES IN EGYPT

Heir to British Throne Appointed Staff
Captain.

London, March 20.—The Prince of Wales has arrived in Egypt on appointment as staff captain to the general officer commanding in chief of the Mediterranean expeditionary force," says an official statement issued.

SENATORSHIP FIGHT NOW ON IN EARNEST

St. Paul, March 20.—Since A. O.
Eberhart came out far in the lead in the contest for places on the Minnesota delegation to the national Republican convention the battle for the United States senatorship is on in earnest.

Eberhart naturally contends that his heavy vote is an endorsement of his candidacy for the senate.

His opponents dispute this, asserting that the presidential primary had nothing whatever to do with the senatorship, and that Eberhart polled the big vote because he was better known and made a harder campaign than the other candidates.

Both sides admit late advertising
had much to do with the result.

The Kellogg people will make use of this pointer in their campaign. Mr.
Kellogg is expected to make speeches in every part of the state, and his friends of the press will do their share. It is probable Eberhart also will conduct a speaking campaign.

The Clapp people never are idle,
but they are likely to feature literature in their campaign, since it would be impolitic for Clapp to leave Washington to make speeches while the senate is in session.

Daniel W. Lawler is in line for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

THAT VILLA HAS ESCAPED IS THE PERSISTENT RUMOR

Rumor that Bandit has Eluded Carranza's Men and United States Troops is Persistent

Long Campaign Supplies Problem

(By United Press)

El Paso, March 20.—All indications are for a long campaign, and the problem of supplying the American expedition is uppermost in the minds of the army men here. The withdrawal of the campaign is more likely than the seizing of Mexican railways, which might participate a general intervention and years of bloody warfare. It is recalled that President Wilson let Carranza transport 500 troops from El Paso to Douglas previously, which is thought to account for this favor of Carranza's
to give the use of the railroads.

Believed Possible Villa to Get Away

(By United Press)

El Paso, Texas, March 20.—While
the report comes that Villa is surrounded on three sides by the Car-ranzistas and that the Americans are pressing down upon the fourth side
there are still many miles of mountain and deserts for him to escape into, and his perfect knowledge of every foot of the country it is believed possible for him yet to elude
his pursuers.

Must Get Villa no Turning Back

(By United Press)

Washington, March 20.—The American expedition will be continued until Villa is taken and his band broken up, there will be no turning back irrespective of results, says an official telegram.

Persistent Rumors Villa Has Escaped

(By United Press)

Douglas, Arizona, March 20.—
There are persistent rumors afloat
that Villa has escaped the pursuit of the American and Carranzistas
forces and is safe in the Sierra Madres mountains east of Madera. This report is unconfirmed but it is admitted that the Carranzistas have lost Villa's trail.

No Word Received of Villa Outrages

(By United Press)

San Antonio, March 20.—Gen.
Funston has received no word of Villa's outrages to American colonists in Mexico, so he told the newspaper men today.

Score Military Ambulances Here

(By United Press)

Columbus, March 20.—Two score of military ambulances are concentrated here and being rushed to completion, and it appears that those in charge of the punitive expedition expects bloody fighting. Col. Dodd said he expected to be chasing Villa around those mountain peaks until Christmas.

Washington, March 20.—The supreme court has denied the government application to postpone the steel trust cases.

Would not Embarrass by Seizing Railroads

(By United Press)

Washington, March 20.—President Wilson clearly stated during a conference with his counsellors that United States was unwilling to do anything that would embarrass Carranza, and that the report that they would seize the Mexican Northwestern railway if Carranza refused to give his consent to the use of it was absolutely untrue.

SERBIA'S LOSSES ARE ONE MILLION MEN

(By United Press)

Rome, March 20.—Serbia has lost a million of her five million and typhus. Prince Alexander told

(By United Press)

forced to give up ground near Vo-

lowing an artillery bombardment.

(By United Press)

Paris, March 20.—An official statement says the Verdun infantry attacks on Pepper Heights positions, four miles north of Ver-bombardment preceded the attacks, which showed lack of spirit.

The office of prefect of the propaga-

her four-year-old son.

In each instance the tragedy was discovered by the husband and father

GERMANS REPEL RUSSIAN ATTACK

Berlin Asserts Enemy Suffered
Heavy Losses.

CAPTURE BRITISH TRENCHES

Teutons Also Retake Positions Lost
by Them in Mine Fighting March 2—Number of Casualties Results
From Several Air Raids.

Berlin, March 20.—The German official statement says the expected Russian attacks on the front of Drisciaty lake and Poslavy and on both sides of Narocz lake began with the greatest violence, but the enemy was everywhere repulsed with extraordinary heavy losses. From our positions on both sides of Lake Narocz we counted 9,270 dead Russians. Our losses were very small.

South of Wisniew lake there is an increase in their artillery activity.

A successful attack against the British lines northeast of Vernelles, in which the Germans regained ground
they lost in mine fighting of March 2,
also was announced by the war office.

"In the Verdun region," the official bulletin states that French attempts
"against Le Mort Homme and east thereof" were stopped at the outset.

FRENCH AERIAL ACTIVITY

Berlin Reports Seven Civilians and One Soldier Killed.

Berlin, March 20.—The German war
office issued the following statement:
"Mutual aerial activity in reconnaissance and attack was very pronounced. Our aeroplanes attacked railway bridges on the lines from Clermont to Verdun and Epinal, Lure and Vesoul
and south of Dijon.

"In an enemy aerial attack on Metz
three civilians were wounded.
"Of a French aerial squadron, which attacked Mulhausen and Hebsheim, four aeroplanes were shot down in an aerial flight near Mulhausen. The occupants of the machines were dead.
"At Mulhausen seven civilians were killed and thirteen wounded. At Habsheim one soldier was killed."

AIRMEN RAID ENGLISH COAST

Nine Persons Are Killed and Over Thirty Injured.

London, March 20.—Nine persons were killed and thirty-one injured in a raid of four German seaplanes over the east coast of Kent, it was announced officially.

A British airman brought down one raider over the sea, the German observer being killed.

The total casualties so far reported are—killed, three men, one woman
and five children; injured, seventeen men, five women, nineteen children.
As far as ascertained forty-eight bombs were dropped altogether.

LESS LIQUOR; COST MORE

Britain's Drink Consumption for Year
of War.

London, March 20.—Published figures show that the total consumption of alcoholic liquors during 1915 in the United Kingdom was 92 per cent of that of the previous year, while the expenditure for this purpose increased 10½ per cent, reaching the total of £182,000,000 ($919,000,000).

One of the greatest sales of whisky
in the history of the trade was made when over 1,000,000 bottles of liquor were put up at auction. Record prices, ranging from 9 to 11 shillings per proof gallon, were obtained.

success, being stopped by the French curtain of fire, according to the statement.

Germans Sink Ship a Day.

London, March 20.—Between March 1 and March 18 nineteen hostile ships of the entente allies, aggregating 40-000 tons, have been sunk, says Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent, crediting the statement to a well informed source in Berlin.

RAILWAYS MAY FIGHT TRAINMEN

Committee of Managers Calls Demands Unfair.

CANNOT SHOULDER BURDEN

Stockholders of Eastern Lines Are Urged to Refuse Raise in Wages to What Is Termed a Small Minority
of Their Highest Paid Employees.

New York, March 20.—The conference committee of managers for the Eastern railroads, of which Ellis Lee is chairman, in a statement issued here "to the 200,000 stockholders of these companies," characterized the demands of the railway trainmen for higher wages as unfair, and added that "the carriers cannot and should not shoulder this burden of an unwarranted increase of $10,000,000 in the wages of a small minority of their highest paid employees."

The payroll of the Eastern roads in 1914, it was shown, amounted to $635,- 000,000, of which $186,000,000 went to the trainmen.

"The 660,000 owners of the railroads, who have put $7,000,000,000 of their savings in the business, receive on their investment about $300,000,000
a year, or 4 per cent," the statement continues. "The railroad trainmen on every road in the country are demanding an increase in wages that will add not far from $100,000,000 to the payroll."

"These employees, the highest paid
in the service, are less than one-fifth of the army of railroad workers. They have taken the cream of the big wage advances of the past few years. If they force their demands on the carriers by threat of a nationwide strike surely the wages of the other four-fifths would require adjusting. Manifestly the resources of the railroads
would not permit granting all employees the same proportionate increase."

"The demand of the trainmen is that in all except passenger service they shall get their present ten hours' pay for eight hours' or less service, thus increasing the hourly rate by 25 per cent; and for overtime, one and a half times the new higher hourly rate, an advance of 87½ per cent."

"It is not a demand for an eight-hour workday. It is frankly a demand for higher wages on an eight-hour pay day basis—the eight-hour pay to be a minimum, but the equivalent of the present ten hours' pay."

"Considering the high wages and the favorable working conditions enjoyed by the trainmen, as compared with other railroad men and workers in other industries, their demand for still higher wages is not a fair
one. Nor is it an honest statement to put this demand for higher wages in the form of a plea for an eight-hour day."

Millionaire
Match Maker

(By United Press)

Barberton, O., March 18.—Ohio C.
Barber, millionaire maker of matches,
now 74, plans to make "the best farmers in the world" at "the greatest agricultural school in America."

Barber is drawing plans today to convert his famous $3,000,000, 3500 acre farm, Anna Dean, into an agricultural school adjunct of the Western Reserve University, Cleveland. According to Barber his institution will rival M. A. C., Illinois, Wisconsin or Cornell in agricultural teaching and experimental work.

Barber's farm was named in honor of his first wife, Anna Dean. The farm is now operated with experts in charge of the various departments.
It is stocked with 1600 prize cattle and hogs. Barber will start construction of dormitories this year. He will retain control of the institution until his death.

"I expect to live a long time yet"

said Barber, who recently married his secretary, aged 38. "I want to live on the farm the rest of my life. I'm a farmer first and last. I hope to have the new college under way within a year."

DISPATCH ADS PAY

A Great National Public Utility

That concerns all merchants

THE original Cash Register rang a bell, indicated and recorded the amount of the purchase. It benefited the merchant only.

In a third of a century this old model has developed into a Cash Register that directly benefits every man, woman and child who spends money in a store.

This new Cash Register equally concerns every merchant and clerk, every banker and wholesaler in this land.

It furnishes every customer with a receipt or sales slip.

It prints on this the amount paid or charged.

On this is also printed the date of the sale and who made it.

It forces a duplicate, printed record for the merchant.

It prevents disputes over charges and bills paid.

It saves shoppers' time.

It gives the merchant all his profits. It gives him more money for his family.

It promotes more and quicker sales.

It protects each clerk against making errors and against the mistakes of others.

It rewards the diligent clerk by telling his employer which one makes the largest number of sales and which one gets the greatest amount of business.

It assures the banker additional security for the money
he loans the merchant.

It gives the wholesaler additional assurance that the merchant will have money to pay his bills.

It furnishes the banker and the wholesaler mechanical evidence that the merchant's statement of his business is correct.

It is a business necessity.

THE PRICE OF PAPER

Among the various commodities which have advanced greatly in price of late paper of all kinds holds a prominent place. Some of the ingredients of paper have gone upward enormously, and a few are almost entirely out of the market, these being formerly supplied from abroad, but all kinds of paper material have advanced to burdensome proportions. This increased cost falls directly upon the printing establishments, but must, in part at least, fall more or less upon the general public, says a well informed authority.

In view of the situation the department of commerce in Washington suggests an effort on the part of the public to relieve the situation so far as may be in some particulars. Manufacturers of paper have been urging the department to make it known that the collecting and saving of rags and old papers would greatly better existing conditions for American manufacturers.

The department states that something like 15,000 tons of different kinds of paper and paper board are manufactured every day in the United States and a large proportion of this, after it has served its purpose, could be used over again in some class of paper. A large part of it, however, is either burned or otherwise wasted. This, of course, has to be replaced by new materials. In the early history of the paper industry publicity was given to the importance of saving rags. It is of scarcely less importance now. The department states that it is glad to bring this matter to the attention of the public in the hope that practical results may flow from it. A little attention to the saving of rags and old papers will mean genuine relief to the paper industry and a diminishing drain upon the sources of supply for new materials.

OPPOSITION INCOMPREHENSIBLE

It is not understandable why any intelligent citizen can longer oppose a commission form of government when these cities which have adopted it speak unqualifiedly in favor of it. St. Cloud, our nearest neighbor to adopt it, is overwhelmingly in favor of it and believes that under it that city has achieved a greater degree of practical improvements than most of its inhabitants realize. More permanent improvements have been made since the adoption of the commission form of government four years ago than for the twenty preceding years. Sanitary conditions have been enforced, the efficiency of its fire protection system increased, public parks, drives and playgrounds have been acquired and much general good for the community's welfare has been achieved.

The commission form of government at its very worst is so far in advance of the old system of municipal government (the kind that still obtains in Little Falls) that its opposition by any intelligent and fair-minded citizen is incomprehensible.—Little Falls Transcript.

Filings for the legislature are already being made and among those who are going before the people are Frank E. Minette, the veteran Sauk Center member of that body, who has been a legislator from Stearns county as long as the memory of man

SIXTH DISTRICT DELEGATES TO THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

CLIFTON A. ALLBRIGHT

Elected as one of the two Sixth District Delegates to the Republican National Convention at Chicago

GEO. E. HANSCOM

Elected to the Republican National Convention

runeth. Charles E. Warner, of Aitkin, has also made his filing and he will probably have no opposition. Mr. Warner will be a prominent candidate for speaker of the house, if his people return him to that body, which they undoubtedly will.

This war business has boosted the price of horseflesh and made many dollars for stock dealers in this country. Now that we have a little war of our own, or trouble at least, the prospect is for a stiffening of the present market price with the idea that the Mexican trail will require more horses for cavalry mounts and that the prices will be higher than the Allies have been paying.

From the range papers it is learned that D. C. Henderson is making a canvas of that territory with a view of coming before the people of this district as a candidate for the legislature. This indicates a contest for the place as Rep. Syverson has indicated his intention of standing for a re-election and going before the people on his record of the last session.

It now looks as though F. C. Stevens of St. Paul, would be the fourth delegate to the republican national convention. On Saturday the state house officials had O. J. Larson in the lead of Manahan and today the figures put ex-Congressman Stevens ahead of Larson. Stevens' friends now hope to see him win out by at least 250 votes.

The minister of transportation says the estimated gross profits of the government liquor dispensaries after paying the cost of operation of the system for the coming year is placed at $800,000, according to a Saskatchewan dispatch. The Canadian government is evidently looking for a good year's business.

The government bunch on lawns is to plant your grass seed at once.

It must be in the air, there is a swimming tournament on in St. Paul today. No, it is not staged on or in the Mississippi river, but at the Y. M. C. A.

Long Way to Willard's Jaw

(By United Press)

New York, March 20—Towering five inches above his huge adversary and possessing a reach five and one-half inches longer, Jess Willard has two of the great defensive works known to boxing thrown up around his precious jaw-bone. If Frank Moran, a comparative midget, is to hang flowers and ivy on Willard's nether maxillary he will have to fairly leap in the air. Six feet seven inches is the altitude of Big Jess. Moran's red thatch stands a mere six feet one inch above the calloused soles of his battleship feet. And before he gets near enough to start availing toward Willard's classic features the boy from Pittsburgh must make through a mass of arms 83 1/4 inches long. He works under a handicap right there, for his own arms are only 78 inches long, a right respectable pair of limbs in ordinary circles but puny outworks in Willard's gigantic company. One of Moran's favorite modes of battle bespeaks the craft of the former globe trotter. His watchers have found that Moran likes to work his men into a crouching attitude, draw down his arms with a poke at the body and then swing over the old right-hand wallop to the jaw. The odds are that he can't do that with Willard. Big James fought a safe battle against Jack Johnson, standing almost upright throughout, with his arms extended far in front of him in excellent blocking formation. He refused to crouch and take a chance on meeting up with marauding haymakers brought up from the floor. His personal disposition, too, may stand Willard in good stead in the seventy-thousand dollar skit, for he is not a belligerent type, preferring to let the other fellow ram his face against the outstretched Willard mitts. Moran's two knockouts over Jim Coffey demonstrated his punching ability more decisively than any of his other performances. True, there are those who suspect the tint of the Corkonian's vertebrae but none who saw the jolts go home had any lingering doubts of the drive that impelled them. In the second fight Moran swept over his right with the force of a mule's hind tootsie. Right away the bells began to tinkle in Coffey's steeple and he remained away picking daisies for a considerable period of time. Those who know fighting and fighters recall the fate of little Tommy Burns, perhaps the hoariest bit of frost that ever clung to the championship landscape. He went against Jack Johnson under a similar handicap and like Fainting Bertha, never had a chance. Burns was 5 feet seven inches tall and Johnson's height was six feet, one-fourth of an inch. Despite the difference in height, Burns had it on the gloomy exile in reach. His arms were 74 1/2 inches long and Johnson's only 73. Johnson weighed 220 and Burns 179 in that fight, but Moran has proved that weights don't amount to much when fighters get above the 175-pound mark. As Willard weighs about 57 pounds more than Moran, perhaps it is just as well for the challenger to stick to his contention.

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY

Dallas, Texas, March 20—Otto H. Lang, street commissioner, when asked by a young man in his department for a raise, told him he didn't deserve a raise because he had not done any work at all during the year. Lang proved his assertion like this: Each year has 365 days. You sleep eight hours each day, which equals 122 days. This leaves 243 days. You rest eight hours each day, which equals 122 days. This leaves 121 days. There are fifty-two Sundays that you do not work or 52 days. This leaves 69 days. You have one-half day off each Saturday, or 26 days. This leaves 43 days. You have one and a half hours each day for lunch, or 28 days. This leaves 15 days. You get two weeks' vacation each year, or 14 days. This leaves 1 day, and this being the Fourth of July we close on that day, so you've done no work at all.

Clean Little Liver and Bowels

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish. Stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated or your child is restless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advt.

To Campaign for Drys,
Birthday Banquet

(By United Press)

Lincoln, Neb., March 20—The annual Bryan birthday banquet, given each year in honor of the former secretary of state by his friends and admirers, will be held tonight and arrangements have been made for the usual large gathering. It was fifty-six years ago yesterday, in Illinois, that Bryan was born, but because the anniversary came this year on Sunday the celebration was postponed until today. Following the banquet Mr. Bryan will make a tour of many Nebraska towns where there are local fights on the liquor question, and following this tour he will make a general campaign throughout the state as one of the chief speakers for the non-partisan anti-saloon committee on behalf of the adoption of the proposed prohibition amendment to the Nebraska constitution.

St. Paul, Minn., March 18—Hans Grunow, German consul for the northwest, absolutely refuses to smoke so-called Russian cigarettes made in America. Formerly they were favorites of his. He destroyed several gross when hostilities commenced.

Washington, March 20—Robert Lansing, secretary of state, admits he tells fibs occasionally. When asked recently whether he had called at the German embassy he said he would say no if he had.

ODDITY

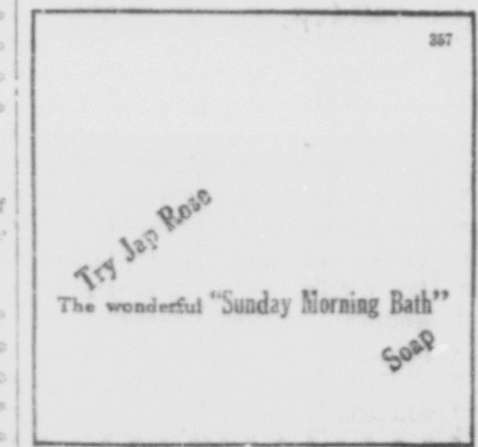

St. Paul, Minn., March 20—Farmers in this vicinity have about completed one of the largest harvests since 1888. Harvest in winter, with temperature sub-zero? Sure, its ice they have harvested. The crop was excellent. Millions of tons were stored. The crop was better than any years since 1888, because of the intense cold.

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts and Get Rid of Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

32 Little Performers Play Wonderfully Under Baton of Edward Harris Bergh
(Contributed)

When the curtain rose at the Opera house Saturday afternoon for the beginning of the Children's Hour entertainment, it disclosed a setting of 32 little red chairs which were occupied by 32 restless little bundles of energy. But they were not restless then, for they felt the importance of the occasion and the seriousness of the business they had in hand. They knew that they were the cynosure of nearly a thousand pairs of eyes, and therefore they must do their very best. It was an extra-capacity house that greeted them, the extra being secured by the lap-pew method. Not only real mothers, but several devoted "little mothers" held their small charges throughout the whole program, which was an hour and a half in length, but so varied that it did not seem that long.

The remarkable thing about the orchestral performance was not its perfection, for of course it was not perfect, but the fact that these tots recognized their mistakes and were able to correct them without becoming panicky. For instance, in one of the quartettes, one of the first violins was a beat behind the other, where they were supposed to be playing in unison. But, instead of getting worse and worse, as is usual in such cases, the lagging caught step again in just a few measures. In another case, a mistake was corrected in the repeated passage, which shows close attention, a good ear, an alert mind and a serious purpose. The seriousness of purpose was reflected in each little face, while each pair of eyes seemed fairly glued to the music, and yet they all responded to the increase or decrease in tempo or volume indicated by their leader's baton.

This was strikingly illustrated in the last number, which was a Scherzo by Schubert, if you please. The tempo kept getting faster and faster until the bows fairly danced a jig across the strings, yet all kept the pace.

Think of what it means to the musical future of Brainerd to have these tots forming a taste for good music, and communicating that taste to all of their playmates. By the time they are grown, rag-time and silly, sentimental songs will not thrive even in the picture shows. The best way to kill a vicious form of amusement is to educate the public to demand a more wholesome form. This is what the Junior Symphony and the Brainerd Symphony orchestras are doing for Brainerd. Let the good work go on.

After the orchestral concert, the California Jubilee Quartet gave two camp meeting songs, interpreting them with their hands. The children were delighted and evidently thought that the rule of no encores was not to be enforced in the case of the black men, for they clapped and whistled persistently, but the relentless curtain fell, and, as it did so, a wall of childish woe arose.

But the children were soon appeased and their attention held by the grip of human interest with which the film-story, "Spirit of Audubon" opens. A widowed mother is reading the life of Audubon to her little girl, and the picture of Audubon's gentle, kindly face has greatly impressed the child. Soon, a neighbor boy and his widowed father call, and the picture of Audubon is eagerly shown to the little visitor, but he is not much impressed, apparently, and as soon as the children are left alone, he tries to rob a bird's nest. His little hostess is in great distress, and finally decides to become a "Tattle-tale" in order to save Mr. Audubon's pets. So she calls her mother who orders the lad to put back every egg.

But evidently the sub-conscious mind of the boy was impressed either by the picture or the incident, for in his dreams that night the spirit of Audubon came and took him and his good little neighbor on a visit to bird-land. They visited the haunts of strange and unfamiliar birds, such as the Pelican, which carries its refrigerator along with it, where it stores any extra supply of fish. This elastic pouch, which the pictures showed plainly, has been known to hold as much as five gallons of water. The white ibis, held sacred by the Egyptians and often found on their mummy-pots and sarcophagi, was seen in its native haunts. The beautiful egret, which has been so ruthlessly sacrificed to the god of Vanity, was visited.

Many intimate scenes of family bird life were also shown, and one wonders how it is possible to get close enough to the nests for the camera to catch the mother bird in the act of feeding her young, or to show father Heron faithfully guarding the nest while his wife goes shopping.

A bit of comedy was introduced by a brood of ducklings, mothered by an old hen, who take it into their heads to go swimming in the drinking pan, while mother hen's perturbation is expressed by her ruffled feathers.

The unique was not lacking, either. An old dead tree was shown hung with gourds as thick as a heavily laden pear tree, each one the nest of a pair of martins. The gourds simulated fruit and the flying martins foliage, so that the tree seemed to have been reincarnated by its bird life.

Some of the great estates were shown the children, where breeding birds are fostered and protected. They were also taken to the government bird preserves and one picture showed "Teddy" with the laughing gulls flying all about his head. Another, an island in the Gulf of Mexico, seemed to have clouds of flying birds and every time the birds appeared in such quantities as to seem to fill the air, a wee occupant of one of the "lap-pews" would call out "Oh! see the birds," which added just the right touch of realism to the charming intermingling of child and bird life in the film.

When the children return from their dream excursion to bird-land, the little boy vows (as soon as he is wide awake) that he will never rob a bird's nest or kill a bird again, and no doubt this same vow was secretly taken by every child present.

If these vows are all kept, the good women who worked so hard to give the children this free treat will feel well repaid for their labor. Few realize that it costs nearly forty dollars to give this entertainment, and the proceeds from the tickets sold the grown-ups just about covered expenses. The Children's Hour women certainly deserve a great deal of credit for having the courage to undertake and the persistency to carry through this laudable undertaking.

The ladies wish to thank all who contributed to the success of this entertainment, especially the Riverside Gun club and those who spent time and energy in selling tickets.

Larson-Lewis

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at 8 o'clock March 15, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Larson when their daughter, Miss Ethel Emelia became the wife of Roy Howard Lewis, Rev. Knoll of Duluth, officiating.

The home was prettily decorated, the colors being pink and white. To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march the bridal party assembled under a canopy of spruce boughs and were attended by the Misses Wilma Notton of Little Falls and Nora Swanson of Brainerd and Messrs. Charles Larson, brother of the bride and Herbert Ellingson of Chester, Virginia.

The bride was gowned in white silk crepe de meteor with trimmings of seed pearls and silver lace and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids were gowned, one in pink and one in white pussy willow silk and carried pink and white carnations.

A four-course dinner was served immediately after the ceremony. About 40 guests were present, those from out of town being Mrs. J. L. Nord and Mrs. E. Nord of Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Larson of Crosby, Minn.; Herbert Ellingson, of Chester, Virginia; Miss Wilma Notton, of Little Falls; Miss Nora Swanson of Brainerd, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Anderson and family of Pillager.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis left for Richmond, Virginia, and other points in the east. Many beautiful presents were received. They will be at their home at Brainerd after April 15.

Herbert-Long

Miss Lillian Hebert was married to Lloyd Long at Fort Francis, Canada, on February 28 and they are now spending their honeymoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. V. Long of Nisswa. A visit was also paid Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Kelsven of Brainerd.

Mr. Long played in the bands in Brainerd and at Fort Francis is a musician in the 98th regiment band of the "Home Guards."

Candy Sale

The "Til Try" class of the Evangelical church of Northeast Brainerd will hold a candy sale Thursday evening, March 23, in the basement of the church. Candy and sherbet will be sold.

The Baby Girl Found in Ditch

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

London, March 10 (By Mail).—Phyllis Trenches, a bright, blue-eyed, flaxen-haired baby girl of four, today at Bedford, Eng., is the principal figure in perhaps the most romantic little story of the big war. Phyllis is the adopted pride and joy of the Bedfordshire regiment. Her given name was derived from one Private Phillip Impey, who picked her out of a ditch in an isolated and unromantic part of northern France while the Bedfordshires were marching by. "Trenches" is the only appropriate surname for Phyllis because Phyllis lived with her soldier foster parents in a cold and clammy trench on the firing line for eight long days. When and how this four-year-old happened to be in a ditch, wet and weak from cold, as Private Impeys company was passing toward the first line trenches, probably never will be explained. It was Impey, however, who stepped out of line to gather the child up in his arms. Impey was told by an officer a moment later that he would either have to leave the little girl or take her along. So Phyllis went to the trenches. Within three days she had recovered from exposure and was the pet of the company, both officers and men. Infant clothing had appeared, seemingly from nowhere, but there was suspicious evidence that more than one khaki uniform had lost its shape in favor of the Daughter of the Regiment. The best and safest dugout and the softest trench bed were Phyllis' and there wasn't a colder who wouldn't have cut off a leg to make her happy. The German trenches were 150 yards away. One day Phyllis was missing. Shouts from the enemy trenches helped to find her. She was boldly toddling in "No Man's Land" toward the German lines. The Germans were beckoning her on. A hundred Bedfordshires were ready in an instant to risk their lives for Phyllis. Two, who were quicker than the rest, ran forward and got her and not a shot was fired. After that Phyllis ventured over the parapet several times. No German offered to harm her and there was an understood truce when the child appeared.

Eight days of trench duty for the Bedfordshires finally ended. Phillip Impey died from a bullet wound on the seventh day and the company quartermaster general gladly became Father of Phyllis. She was taken back to billet life and never allowed in the trenches again. She was placed in charge of a company storeman who had children of his own. He took great pride in fathering Phyllis while the company did duty on the firing line. Six months later the company quartermaster sergeant was wounded and sent back to a hospital in England. Phyllis went along. She was soon the pet of the patients and nurses and it was a sad day in that hospital when Phyllis and her foster father were sent to Bedford, the former to find a home and the latter to convalescence.

Phyllis Trenches has a real home today and a real foster mother. She is still, however, the child of the Bedfordshires, who have pledged themselves to see that she wants nothing throughout the remainder of her eventful young life.

Your Chance to be Fairy Godmother

(By United Press)

MINNESOTA "U" COEDS HELP

Minneapolis, Minn., March 18
—Fifty Minnesota university coeds want to be foster mothers. They have joined a movement of the Woman's club, to pay ten cents a day each, to help support France's war orphans.

New York, March 20—Here's a chance today for any little American girl to be a fairy godmother for $2 a week. This is the fourth anniversary of the National organization of the Campfire Girls, and in every city and town in the country today they are celebrating it by enrolling fairy godmothers and godfathers too, for European war orphans. All you have to do to be a fairy godmother or father is to go to the Camp Fire Girls' headquarters nearest you, or write to them and tell them about it. You will be given a godson or goddaughter and the godson or goddaughter will be kept warm and well supplied with things to eat for seven days and besides all that, will write you a letter and tell you how glad he or she is to have you for a godfather or godmother. You may repeat the experience as many weeks as you please. At the Camp Fire Girls national headquarters, 461 Fourth avenue, New York, the girls are busy today receiving food and clothing from all over the country to be sent to the war orphans in all the warring countries. Many of these little boys and girls in the fighting countries, some of them scarcely old enough to toddle, are found wandering through the fields or lying beside the roads, half clad, hungry and homeless. Their fathers have been killed or are still fighting and their mothers, in many cases, have died of starvation or been taken away by the soldiers. Many little girls and boys, beginning today, will make up bundles of clothing and toys and other things and send them to the Camp

KOKEMO AND THE GEISHA GIRLS SINGING KOKEMO'S LAMENT IN "MISS CHERRYBLOSSOMS."

Rehearsals are proceeding daily and "Miss Cherryblossoms" will be presented in the most artistic manner possible March 22 and 23 at the Brainerd opera house under the auspices of the Bachelor Maids.

Pretty girls, catchy music, a wealth of handsome costumes, lots of life, wit and humor, these are all embodied in "Miss Cherryblossoms." It is a home talent play. Staged in Japan, amid the cherry blossoms, the play is at once unique and pleasing. Considerable of the success of the play rests on the work of the choruses and they are being drilled to a high state of perfection. The music is tuneful, chief among the pieces being "Tokyo," "Love is Like a Dainty Flower," "Cherryblossoms," "Sailing on Love's Sea" and "What the Moon Saw."

Hot Springs, Ark., March 20—Last of the major league clubs to start spring training, the Boston Red Sox got together here today. They limbered up a bit yesterday, but got down to real cases today.

One short month only remains between them and the reveille of the ump's call, yet Boss Bill Carrigan feels confident that his Champs will be in top-notch form when the season starts.

From all corners of the U. S. A., the champions of the world gathered together for the start of the 1916 season, with the watch-word: "Repeat!" From every corner of the field or hotel, whether by player or onlooker, the subject of conversation was conjecture as to the repetition of a certain performance. The only sad faces were those of the recruits, for where the rookies are going to break into the playing line-up of the Clan Carrigan this year, it is hard to see. With Hobby and Gainer both full of pep and fighting for the regular berth on the first station; Jack Barry, who arrived in mid-summer shape from his practice at Holy Cross, holding down the key-stone sack; Larry Gardner on the hot corner and Scott and Janvrin cutting up in the short field, to say nothing of the fence-busting-and-protecting corporation of Spoke, Duffy and Harry, it is difficult to say where in the regular line-up the ump will announce in about a month, a rookie, no matter how ambitious, is going to fit. The answer may be found in some unforeseen stroke, an accident to a regular or the development of a real phenom among the recruits, but present indications are that this will not transpire. Among the battery men the chief objects of interest are (1) Sam Agnew, whose pep and cherry good-nature and iron whip are already hailed with joy by his new mates. (2) The work of the three heroes of last fall's conquest of the Phillies, Foster, Leonard and Shore; each out to have his best season, and each pitching like a house on fire and (3) the generally deadly appearance of the rest of Carrigan's flingers, each claiming he is ready to step in and pitch a full game against a team of Cobbs and Kauffa. The work of Shorten, newest addition to the outer-garden, will be watched with much interest by all concerned these next few days, as with the passing of Olaf Henderson, an accident to one of the Big Three who live near the fence would leave a jagged hole, should the latest acquisition not come up to expectations.

Italy Astounded that Turk Jussuf Izedine is Emmanuel's Cousin

(By United Press)

Rome, March 3 (By Mail)—The recent suicide at Constantinople of Jussuf Izedine, the Turkish hereditary prince, developed that he at one time in the past was decorated with the Italian order of the Annunziata. The disclosure came as such a surprise to the great bulk of Italians that an official explanation had to be made. The Order of Annunziata is not only the highest honor the King of Italy can bestow, but it ranks as one of the oldest and highest orders of knighthood in all Europe. There are only thirty-three of the decorations, and upon the death of a member the gold collar, which is the insignia of the order, has to be returned to the king who can then confer it on someone else. Each person who receives the decoration is elevated to the relationship of a cousin of the King of Italy. When, therefore, it became known that Jussuf Izedine had been a cousin of King Victor, the Italian public wanted to know how it had come about. It developed that the order had been conferred on him in 1872 by King Victor Emmanuel, the Second, grandfather of the present king and the founder of modern Italy. The conferring of the decoration was said to have been made through a mistake, easily explainable by the fact that Jussuf Izedine, who only a mere boy then and that nothing was known personally about the Turkish royal family of Osmanli, except that it was the reigning family. Prince Jussuf, however, is known to have been very fond of the decoration and thereby hangs another tale. Upon the death of Murad V, Abdul Hamid, in ascending the throne, took possession of all the decorations which had been conferred upon his predecessor, sold them, and had the cash turned into his personal treasury. Amongst the lot, there happened to be also the gold collar of the Annunziata belonging to Prince Jussuf, and which under the rules of the order would have to be returned to King Victor upon the prince's death. Prince Jussuf was very sorry to have his uncle steal his decoration and accordingly in 1909 sent a special representative to Rome to have a new gold collar of the Annunziata made for him. Italy being at war just now with Turkey, it is doubtful if even this one will ever find its way back into King Victor's hands.

Mrs. P. Rehkamp, 2404 Herman St., Covington, Ky., writes: "I have been using Foley's Honey and Tar for nearly two years and can find no better cough syrup. "From Greenland's icy mountains,
From India's coral strand,
Where Afric's sunny fountains
Roll down their golden sand,
From many a distant river,
From many a palm plain,
They call us to deliver
Their heads from sun and rain."

You will find CERTAIN-TEED affording equal protection from the snow and ice of the Arctic, and the sun and rain of the Tropics. It is literally "the roof of the world".

Making roofing is the General's chief business. He makes one-third of all the roll roofing made in America—thirty-nine other manufacturers make the balance. Such predominance is due to the General's ability to make the highest quality roofing at the lowest cost.

Every advantage that men, money, mills and machinery can offer is used to increase production, maintain quality and lower the cost. The result is that today CERTAIN-TEED, the world's best quality, costs less than inferior roofing cost ten years ago.

CERTAIN-TEED is made of the best quality roofing felt, thoroughly saturated with a scientific blend of soft asphalts, the formula of the General's board of expert chemists. It is then coated with a blend of harder asphalts, which keeps the inner saturation soft and prevents the drying-out process so destructive to ordinary roofing.

CERTAIN-TEED is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to ply (1, 2 or 3). Experience proves that it lasts longer.

CERTAIN-TEED is made in rolls; also in slate-surfaced shingles. There is a type of CERTAIN-TEED for every kind of building, with flat or pitched roofs, from the largest sky-scraper to the smallest residence or out-building.

Tonight the World Film corporation will present a picturization of Philip Bartholomae's very diverting comedy of two or three years ago, entitled "Over Night." This was one of the Wm. A. Brady successes of that period.

The picture is being directed by James Young who is one of the cleverest comedy directors in the motion picture field. Vivian Martin, who has delighted millions by her pleasing impersonations in "The Wishing Ring," "Old Dutch," "The Arrival of Perpetua" and other pleasing comedies is the timid little heroine—the bride of "Over Night."

There are beautiful views on the river Hudson, and in the Catskills, and also of the great suffrage parade recently held in New York City, in which 40,000 women took part.

It is a bright story of misadventure on the part of two young couples who start off on their honeymoon and lose each other. By force of circumstances one bride finds herself at an inn with the wrong groom, and in the morning the other bride and the other wrong groom arrive. It is a pretty how-do-you-do. The action sustains the fun with high pressure throughout the play.

"Over Night" will be shown at the Best tonight.

Columbus, O., March 20—Ohio suffragists, bent on vengeance for the pigeon-holing by the congressional judiciary committee of the Susan B. Anthony national suffrage amendment, met here today. Women representing each of Ohio's 22 congressional districts announced the following plans:

To resurrect the Anthony amendment and force a vote in congress through pressure on every Ohio congressman. To boost membership of the Ohio suffrage organization to 500,000. Suffrage leaders here today claim that when their organization reaches a membership of 500,000 they will submit another amendment for suffrage in Ohio. The organization now numbers about 300,000. Leaders said that if they can get the half-million members needed, an amendment for state suffrage will be submitted next fall, although it was decided in convention recently to wait another year before trying again.

KOTABAKKA WAS HIS NAME

Papers Found on His Person Give
This Name to Man Charged With Murderous Assault

CARRIED CONSIDERABLE MONEY

Had $300 Certificate of Deposit in
the Brainerd State Bank
Dated March 1

The Finn who is charged with making the murderous attack on John Butala Saturday morning, nearly cutting off his head with a jack knife, was lodged in jail and searched by the sheriff.

A certificate of deposit in the Brainerd State bank for $300 dated March 1, 1916, gave the name of Einar Kotabakka. Other papers showed he had dealings with the Citizens National bank of Houghton, Mich., and that he had been at Dodgeville, Michigan.

Sheriff Claus A. Theorin has written to the Michigan towns to ascertain the man's identity. In Kotabakka's pocket was a pocket book with two ten dollar bills. The jack knife that he did the cutting with had a blade about 3 inches long, with a large nick in the center. It was streaked with blood.

At St. Joseph's hospital Butala lies on a bed of pain. He suffered considerably from the loss of blood. His wounds have been stitched up and he has a fighting chance for recovery provided blood poisoning or other complications do not set in.

Kotabakka has his head bandaged where he received a tap from the gun stock, which put a quietus on his ambition to cut up Wm. Richards. He will not be arraigned today.

SHOCKING CRIME IF REPORT IS TRUE

"Cuyuna Miner" Says a Baby was Killed and Thrown out into Snow
in Settlement Near By

MEN INVOLVED FLEE COUNTRY

Are said to Have Gone to Brainerd and Then Bought Tickets to
Some Point in Canada

The "Cuyuna Range Miner" in its last issue gives prominence to a story of a shocking and revolting crime, which if true, should cause the perpetrators to feel the arm of the law. The story is:

"A shocking story of crime is reported this week from a settlement in the woods several miles north of Cuyuna, which would bear investigation, to say the least.

It seems, according to the story, that a young girl had been making her home for some time with a married sister, and the family consisted of husband and wife, the wife's sister and a brother of the husband. Recently the wife discovered that her sister, who is said to be only a child, was in a delicate condition, and accused the brothers of being the cause of her downfall. The wife, when the story was reported to her by the sister, threatened to expose her husband and brother, and they in turn, as it is reported, told her that if she made an attempt to tell anything they would kill her. According to the story, matters were kept quiet for a time, and finally a babe was born to the girl which it is alleged, was killed and thrown out into the snow.

The wife left home and told her story to the neighbors, but before anything could be done the brothers had departed, going to Brainerd where they are said to have purchased tickets to some point in Canada. persons who claimed to be acquainted with the above mentioned people, who said they had heard of the affair, but refused to furnish further information.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORY OF TODAY

The other day a man rushed up breathlessly to George E. Lowe, yardmaster of the N. P., and complained that a switch engine crew was flirting with his wife and that he did not want them to find occasion to blow steam when his wife went by. George said he would see about it.

"Hank" Spalding, mayor of Hubert, reading about "Bill" Nelson winning the cribbage championship, gave out this interview while watching the lake and river region fast developing in the Brainerd business streets. "I consider I am the best heart player in Brainerd and Minnesota for that matter, and would like to meet some expert."

"Jim" Elder knew of no hearts players and referred him to Col. Johnson.

THE TALE OF A TRUNK

Pequot Review Gives Story of Arrest of Chas. H. Thompson by Special Indian Agents

The Pequot Review gives the Pequot version of the arrest of Charles H. Thompson, a horse dealer of St. Paul, who was arrested in Pequot, lodged in jail at Brainerd and then taken to Little Falls for a hearing. The article reads:

Chas. H. Thompson of St. Paul was arrested at the Tanzer hotel last Saturday night by Special Indian Agents Boyd and Carson, who came up from Brainerd on the night train in response to a telephone call from local authorities.

Thompson was lodged in the jail at Brainerd over Sunday and was taken to Little Falls Monday, where he appeared before United States Court Commissioner Cameron. He waived examination and was bound over to the federal grand jury, being released on bail.

Thompson made his appearance here a week ago Saturday, when he is declared to have brought in a trunk of booze by express. The trunk was taken by Mr. Sims to the Tanzer barn and the booze disposed of. Clifford Day, proprietor of the barn stated to a Review representative that he had no idea that the trunk contained booze, and that it was disposed without his knowledge.

It was reported at that time that another trunk full would make its appearance in town soon, and Constable Knutson was on the watch for it.

The last trunk was brought from Backus on the way freight Saturday. It was located by the constable in the pump house at the rear of the hotel and the Indian agents notified.

Whether the Indian Department has a case against Thompson will depend upon whether the ownership of the trunk can be fixed upon him, and the trunk traced to its entrance into Indian territory.

If this case cannot be made to stick, however, it is expected that proceedings will be instituted under the state law and that there will be plenty of evidence to secure a conviction.

IS YOUR SPINAL COLUMN PLUMB?

There are so many contributing causes which lead to a defective spinal column that to enumerate them would require an almost exhaustive review of life from the cradle to the grave.

The position assumed by the child at the school desk, or the man or woman while at work, suggests the tendency for abnormal spinal curvature; also a fall or bruise, no matter how slight, may easily throw the spinal column out of plumb, and these may cause the fatal pressure upon the nerves and throttle the life-giving currents, leading to disease of the organ.

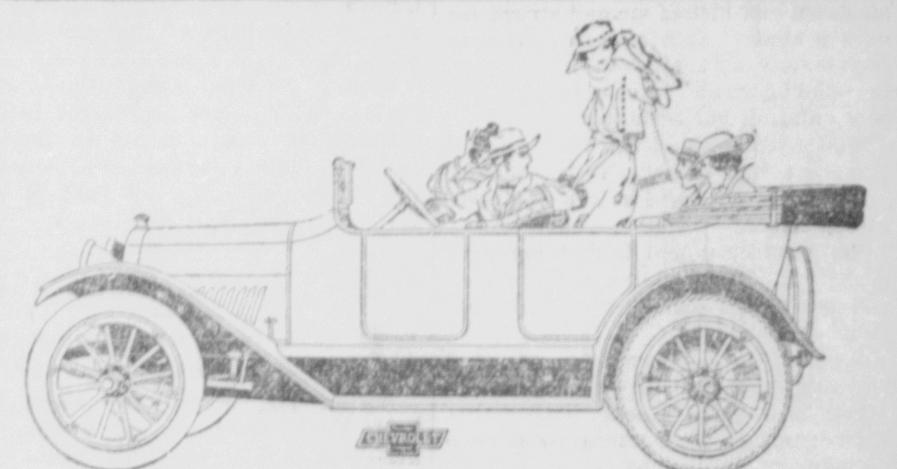

Chiropractic Adjusts Spinal Defects

It lifts the pressure from the nerves, permitting them to nourish the famished and worn out tissues and organs. Nature is then able to bring about normal conditions, which mean health.

The Great McClure Mystery Story, Written by

"I understand," she said softly, and Langdon sat down, overwhelmed by his own recollections of that terrible night and wondering where the frail little woman was getting the strength for the ordeal.

"It was early evening," said Mrs. Page, turning to the jurors. "Philip—Mr. Langdon—had come to ask Mary to go to a ball game with him, for they were friends even then," she explained tenderly. "And while they were standing on the porch my—my—husband came home—drunk. He saw the two of them and accosted them, using improper and insulting language. He didn't mean it—he didn't know what he was saying—but it was terrible for Mary, and she urged Philip to leave at once. I heard them—and heard Dan's words—and I ran out to help, leaving the poker thrust into the hot coals of the range, for I had been fixing the fire.

"We—we got Dan into the house and on to a sofa in the kitchen at last, where he lay babbling about James Pollock, with whom he had been drinking and who was also—or who had tried to be—a friend of my daughter's."

Again the whispering murmur of excitement swept through the room, but died of its own accord.

"Dan slept for a long time, and when he woke up he wanted more to drink.

"I heard James Pollock make an insulting taunt."

I had sent Mary to bed, and I was alone with him. I tried to reason with him, but he forgot I was his wife. He was insane with that awful thirst. He ordered me to bring him the bottle of whisky out of his cabinet, and when I wouldn't he beat me. He threw me down and kicked me and struck me with a chair. And, though I tried to keep back a cry that would rouse Mary, she—heard and came running down, poor child, in her little nightdress.

"She screamed and ran forward and dragged at her father. Trying pitifully to protect me—and at last—he turned—upon her."

"And then—he saw—the poker—I had forgotten—still thrust into the fire—and he dragged it out."

A quivering moan like a vocal echo to her mental agony slipped from Mary's lips, and dropping her head, she sobbed aloud.

"Please go on, Mrs. Page," said Langdon warningly, and though the mother yearned toward her daughter, she took up her story again in a voice that rose word by word into a poignant cry straight from a mother's anguished soul.

"He dragged Mary to the center of the room—that flaming poker in his hand. He forced her to her knees. I struggled to get to them, but I was weak—dazed, half conscious because of a blow on the head. It was all just a nightmare to me! But I heard Mary scream and scream and scream, and then—I saw—the poker burn into my child's forehead! I smelled the scorched flesh and from somewhere I got the strength to leap upon him—and then—the door was burst open and—Mr. Langdon came in.

"He—he had been worried about us," she panted, her voice breaking now, "and, coming back to the house, heard the cries. My husband rushed at him and they fought. . . . suddenly Mary, who had been lying in a moaning little heap on the floor, writhed—got to her knees—to her feet—and before I could stop her, began to dance wildly about the two men, laughing and shouting and singing. And then, while we stood there appalled, even Dan—sobered by it—she ran on—out of the house—and into the street.

"Philip was after her in a moment. But it seemed hours before I could crawl to the door, and I saw—Mary disappearing down the street—and heard James Pollock make an insulting taunt. Then I was knocked down by my husband, who rushed by me with an oath.

"When I got up again Mr. Langdon was out of sight, and Dan and James Pollock were lying huddled in the path struggling to get to their feet."

Her voice dropped now and she finished quietly, firmly.

"Three hours later Philip brought Mary home—wrapped in his coat. Her nightgown was in ribbons; her feet were torn and bloody where she had danced and run over stones and stumps in the woods near our home. Her hands were bruised from snatching at trees and rocks by the way. She was in torture with the burn on her forehead, but she was—quite sane. And, your honor, she had no recollection of anything that had happened after she saw her father advancing with the red-hot poker."

NEW YORK LAWYER IS KILLED BY WIFE

Frederick, Md., March 20.—Mrs. Elsie Young English shot and killed her husband, Arthur E. English, a lawyer of New York, at their home near here.

The shooting was done in the presence of their six-year-old daughter and is said to have occurred during a quarrel. English was the son of Thomas Dunn English, a former representative in congress from New Jersey and the author of the song "Ben Bolt."

Mrs. English asserts that she shot in self-defense, when her husband, in a fit of anger, pointed a revolver at her. An examination of the body of English showed that a bullet had gone through the heart and that four other bullets had taken effect. The furniture in the room in which the body was found was in great disorder, indicating that a struggle had taken place.

New York, March 20.—The annual championship scull and gig races of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen will be held under the auspices of the Duluth Boat club of Duluth, Minn., Aug. 11 and 12, the executive committee of the association announced after a meeting here.

Invitations from Lynn, Mass., and Buffalo, N. Y., were considered before the regatta was awarded to Duluth, but their claims were rejected because the races had not been held in the West in more than four years.

NEW BRITISH DEPARTMENT

HARD TO GET OUT OF MEXICO

Some Say Protectorate Only Will Restore Peace.

CLARKE A STERN CHAIRMAN.

With Vice President Absent Missouri Statesman Is Insistent Upon Enforcing the Order About Senators Talking No More Than the Rules Allow—McLemore Suddenly Famous.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, March 18.—[Special.]—Getting into Mexico can be accomplished without much difficulty; getting out is another question.

It is doubtful whether people will approve of a movement which means simply the punishing of Villa and the destruction of his gang of marauders and then returning to our own border. And yet we may expect from what Carranza has done in the past that he will order us out of Mexico as soon as we have accomplished the purpose for which we went in.

Carranza ordered us out of Vera Cruz and protested against any effort to save American lives and property at Tampico. All moves in that part of Mexico against Huerta at that time were in the interest of Carranza, yet he tried in every way to humiliate the Americans.

After Intervention, What?

There are men of knowledge who say that after the punishment of Villa it will be necessary for the United States to remain in Mexico if the country is ever pacified. Unless President Wilson has changed his mind since he last expressed an opinion on Mexican affairs he will not leave the troops in Mexico. He feels pledged to the other American republics to do nothing that would look like coercion of Mexico or the acquisition of territory. So it may be expected that when the object for which Mexico has been invaded has been accomplished the troops will return.

But this will not be done without protest, as there is a widespread belief that only by virtually exercising a protectorate can peace be restored to Mexico.

Wants Public Discussion.

Senator Borah of Idaho tries to have public discussion of treaties affecting American interests, such, for instance, those relating to Nicaragua and Panama. But the senate will not take any such advanced step. The theory is that all our foreign affairs must be kept in the dark for fear some one will hear something and give the information to foreign governments.

It is too bad that the discussion of the treaty proposing to pay Colombia for the loss of Panama cannot be in public. That ought to be quite interesting.

Clarke Holds Them Down.

When Vice President Marshall is absent President Pro Tem. Clarke is insistent upon enforcing the rule about senators talking no more than the rules allow. He has been holding down a number of garrulous statesmen who like nothing better than a running argument lasting for hours.

Defends Old Kentucky.

Congressman Murray of Oklahoma, speaking on some provision relating to tobacco in which Kentucky men showed a great interest, remarked that "Kentucky was full of colonels and the colonels full of corn."

That aroused Thomas of Kentucky, who came in just in time to catch the last remark. He good naturedly chaffed Murray, saying that the alfalfa statesman had cost him $40 in tobacco, which he had furnished because only in Kentucky could such fine tobacco be obtained. Tobacco was a great Kentucky product, Thomas insisted, but he said that unless Alfalfa Bill stopped begging from him he would go broke in keeping up the supply.

Pure Drinking Water.

Every once in awhile some senator or member of the house arises and points out that by the pollution of streams thousands of people are poisoned each year and suggests that measures be taken for the protection of such streams. If any one makes any remark it is to agree with the speaker, and that is all that comes of it. There are no votes in putting through such legislation.

Wouldn't Be Bottled.

Senator Ashurst of Arizona wanted to talk about the Mexican affair, and, as usual, Chairman Stone of the foreign relations committee tried to shut him off with points of order and other parliamentary devices.

"It's no use," said Ashurst; "you can't bottle me up now. I am going to speak on this situation."

His Name In History.

Two weeks ago it is doubtful if very many people knew there was a man named McLemore in congress. Congressman Gallivan of Massachusetts, replying to the assertion by a Republican member that the resolution which caused so much fuss came from the Democratic side, said, "No one on this side of the house is proud of that fact, with perhaps the exception of the gentleman from Texas, Mr. McLemore, who has enjoyed the spotlight of notoriety that would never have been his but for this freak resolution of whereases."

TAGGART TO GO TO SENATE

Indiana National Committeeman Will Succeed Late Senator Shively.

Indianapolis, March 20.—Thomas Taggart, national committeeman from Indiana of the Democratic party, it became known here, is to be named successor to the late Benjamin F.

THOMAS TAGGART.

Shively in the United States senate. Governor Ralston and Mr. Taggart would not discuss the appointment for publication, but the commission probably will be issued.

FEARS KNIFE AFTER DEATH

Man Will's Estate on Stipulation Body Will Be Protected.

Jersey City, N. J., March 19.—John Dunne, a Civil war veteran, who died a few days ago, left all his property to Thomas Gregory, in whose restaurant he had eaten for many years, with the stipulation, "I ask Thomas Gregory not to allow my body to be pierced with a knife or any other instrument after my decease, knowing as I do that my continued illness, which will eventually cause by death, is due to a ruinous operation."

RUSSIAN MINISTER QUILTS

Director of Interior Resigns Post, Says Imperial Ukase.

London, March 20.—An imperial ukase announces the resignation of Alex. I. Khvostoff, Russian minister of interior, according to a Renter dispatch from Petrograd. Premier Sturmer is assigned the portfolio, adds the dispatch, assuming its duties in addition to those of the premiership.

Didn't Know It Was Loaded.

Kenosha, Wis., March 20.—Alfred Sahr, twelve years old, was shot and fatally wounded by his cousin, Arthur Boness. Boness was playing with a gun and did not know it was loaded. Sahr died on the way to a hospital.

SHOOTS WIFE AND HIMSELF

Iowan Wrote Mother He Had "Gone Dippy or Something."

Omaha, March 20.—Edward J. Maynard, former instructor of nurses at the Iowa state hospital at Clarendon, Ia., shot his wife of two months and then committed suicide. There was no apparent motive for the crime. Mrs. Maynard was a nurse at the Iowa state hospital before she married.

In a letter addressed to his mother, Mrs. A. M. Heath, Los Angeles, Cal., Maynard expressed the belief he had "gone dippy or something" and bade her goodbye.

His Official Prudence.

"That magistrate never has an opinion to give on any subject, it seems to me."

"Well, now, how can you expect a magistrate to commit himself?"—Exchange.

BRIGHTER CHILDREN

Children are probably brighter to-day than a generation ago—but are they stronger? That's a grave question. So many pinched faces, dulled eyes and languid feelings make us wonder if they will ever grow into robust, healthy men and women.

If your children catch colds easily, are tired when rising, lack healthy color, or find studies difficult, give them Scott's Emulsion for one month to enrich their blood and restore the body-forces to healthy action.

Scott's Emulsion is used in private schools. It is not a "patent medicine," simply a highly concentrated oil-food, without alcohol or harmful drugs. It cannot harm; it improves blood; it benefits lungs and strengthens the system. Your druggist has it—refuse substitutes. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. 15-2
